Find your products easily using the personalised INGUN product finder.

INGUN's new website is now online!

Standard products already featured in print media such as INGUN catalogues can now all be found online. With the new website, INGUN offers data sheets or product information for every product online and is therefore the best place for customers to learn about INGUN's extensive range of test equipment.

The product finder is the heart of the new website. With the user-friendly filter function, customers can easily limit results using various options. Furthermore, there is a free text search option to find the right product.

In addition to the product finder, the website offers much more. INGUN have generated a completely new look with a modern feel featuring new product and corporate image pictures. Improved site navigation as well as an extensive download area, including free text search and filter options, also make the site incredibly user friendly.
