Chris Dayney of Fuji America Promoted to Eastern Regional Sales Manager

Vernon Hills, IL. – Fuji Corporation is happy to announce that Chris Dayney, former Training Team leader at Fuji America, has transitioned to a new role as Eastern Regional Sales Manager for the continental United States. To match demand as Fuji's market share continues to rise, expansion of sales and support are critical to the operation. Under Chris' leadership, Eastern and Mid-Atlantic states will see a higher level of customer support, responsiveness, and growth.

"I'm very proud to now represent Fuji as Eastern regional Sales Manager," says Chris Dayney. "With 27 years SMT instructor experience, my technical knowledge of Fuji equipment will serve us all well. I am now firmly planted on the east coast and will bring experience, energy, and quality to every customer. We are here for the long haul to bring Fuji automation to every factory."

Fuji America is excited to grow its team of experts, and looks forward to working with new and current customers alike in an enhanced capacity as a result of Chris' efforts. As expansion continues, the growing user base in the continental US will see further increased support capabilities. This also results in increased support coverage for Canada, with Chris covering eastern provinces.
