

High Monkey

At High Monkey we are a team of talented problem solvers, strategists, communication experts, designers, and developers. We may be small in numbers, but we have big ideas that make a difference for our clients.

We take a creative approach to solving our clients' needs, always focusing on people and processes first and then the technology. Our proven methodology delivers web solutions that are user friendly, practical and meet the business objectives. High Monkey's team works collaboratively with our clients and their users to define requirements, devise an IA, create design concepts, test and then develop internal and external facing websites. We've created successful websites for clients in the government, educational, and private sectors, such as Hennepin County, Minnesota; Washington State Community and Technical Colleges; and Medtronic.

complex websites simplified - regardless of the technology

- We design, build, and implement websites.
- We simplify complex information systems and make them easier to use.
- We focus on UX and responsive design.
- We configure Kentico and other Content Management Systems for your needs.
- We deliver the knowledge you need to manage the solutions we create.

what we do – how we do it

Our services can be delivered as “stand-alone” but the real strength of our process is the combination of multiple services for a project . . . the results far exceed the sum of the parts.

planning

requirements

strategy

governance

content migration

design

information architecture

wireframe

design & branding

usability testing

development

content management systems

development

business process integration

knowledge transfer

documentation

testing

Contact Us

Reach out to us today to discuss your content needs.

Joel Baglien - (612) 594-7671

Erik Bredesen – (612) 594-7663