Our rich history began when Ted Nelson invented stud welding in 1939. As a ship builder helping the US's WW II effort, he knew there had to be an easier way to secure wooden decking to aircraft carriers. Today, his process of Split Second Fastening, leads the stud welding manufacturing industry - Nelson® Stud Welding.

Leading the global manufacturing & distribution markets of weld stud fasteners and application equipment with limitless applications at the Lowest In-Place Cost!

Nelson® Stud Welding serves the markets of:

- Automotive
- Construction
- Industrial
- Shipbuilding

Fillet Weld vs. Stud Weld

Stud Welding is an electric arc process where an arc is drawn between the base of the stud and the base metal creating the equivalent of a penetration weld in less than 1.5 seconds.
