

EndZone Benches

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

At NeoCon Chicago 2014, Spec introduced EndZone – a multipurpose work surface ideal for collaborative learning and plug-and-go activities in high-traffic areas.

“With EndZone’s ever increasing popularity and simplicity of design it was only natural to take the series one step further and offer it as a bench”, says Shelley MacDonald, Director of Marketing.

The EndZone Bench is available in two, three or four seats and can be specified with or without cushions in a virtually unlimited number of fabrics. A variety of cushion configurations are offered on all the EndZone Benches creating a combination of seating and table options.

Power can be added to the sides of the 2” end panel so users can plug and play as they wait.

EndZone Benches are offered in both laminate and veneer. The undersurface support beam and the insides of the end panels can be finished in contrasting laminates for a striking design detail.

From the corporate waiting room to healthcare environments, EndZone Benches will suit your needs.

Ready to ship September 1, 2016.
