TOTARE AMALFI BRIEFCASE

Professional luxury leather bag designed for concealed carry and business travel

Tracy, CA, January 15, 2020 – As a business traveler, quality luggage is essential. Totare's founder, both a traveler and a garment industry veteran, is familiar with the complexities and requirements of domestic and international travel. Traversing the globe in search of the highest quality leather, superior zippers, and dually practical and aesthetically appealing designs—his years and miles of research yielded a worthy result.

The perfect luxury leather bags.

Still, Totare's founder would not settle for bags that offered only a pleasing appearance and quality material composition—instead, he chose to design his entire product line to reach a new level of utilitarian. One particular line he dedicated to meet concealed carry needs, a market which, he observed, contained an abundance of unreached potential. Thus, Totare's line of concealed carry luxury leather bags were born. This line is as diverse as the many countries that originally inspired the Totare brand, each designed with a unique niche in mind.

For the professional traveler—the Amalfi.

With a smooth outer leather composition and an unfinished interior, the Amalfi exists at the pinnacle of authentic leather craftsmanship. In a rich onyx outfitted with brass hardware, this classic briefcase complements every variety of business attire. Designed for the professional realm, this bag is the ideal size for stowing the necessities of the dedicated career person, with an abundance of pockets for laptops, mobile devices, and notebooks. The inner compartments, constructed with rigid padding, are also convenient for prudently and safely storing your concealed firearm. This bag can be carried by its sturdy classic handle, or attach the optional shoulder strap to conveniently sling it across your back as you trek through the concrete jungle.

About Totare: Combining the best of innovative concepts with traditional leather craftsmanship, Totare refuses to conform to the standards of industrial mass production. Each Totare bag is handcrafted by exceptionally talented genuine leather artisans, with extreme attention to detail, exemplifying classic leathercraft.
