Arvada, CO November 29, 2016

Metals Treatment Technologies (MT2), the Nation's leading provider of environmental and firing range services, announced its recent accreditation by the Better Business Bureau (BBB).

MT2 is pleased that potential customers feel comfortable when choosing them. The BBB seal will further help customers understand who they are and the core values they believe in.

"We are pleased to be a BBB Accredited Business because we value building trust with our clients," stated James Barthel, MT2 CEO. "Our BBB Accreditation gives our clients confidence in our commitment to maintaining high ethical standards of conduct."

To be accredited by BBB, a business or organization must affirm that it meets and will abide by BBB standards, which are defined by the BBB Code of Business Practices. The Code represents sound advertising, selling and customer service practices that enhance customer trust and confidence in business. The Code is built on the BBB Standards for Trust, eight principles that summarize important elements of creating and maintaining trust in business.

When dealing with a BBB Accredited Business the consumer has peace of mind knowing that they are dealing with an honest organization that is accountable to its clients.
