

Clinger Holsters Aims for Comfort and Concealability

December 4, 2017

Van Buren, AR—Clinger Holsters introduces their clipless, versatile, “Comfort Cling” gun holster. A problem persists with clipless gun holsters: either they are durable, or they are comfortable; not both. Clinger Holsters has changed all that by providing both durability and comfort in their “Comfort Cling” gun holster.

Their holster is suited for both clipless, in-the-waistband (IWB) carry, or pocket carry, depending on your preference, or if you want to carry a back-up pistol in your pocket. The “Comfort Cling” gun holster also breaks up the outline of a pistol while in your pocket, as well.

Clinger Holsters’ developed this soft holster with a low friction Interior layer; a gel-like middle layer; and a non-slip exterior layer. The middle layer of the “Comfort Cling” is the secret to their holster’s comfortability. The exterior layer, made of a coated, non-slip fabric, provides just enough resistance for unholstering from inside the pocket or IWB without taking the holster with it. The “Comfort Cling” also has zig-zag stitching which keeps the holster from catching on a pistol’s rear sights. The interior layer, made of ballistic nylon, conforms to the shape of the pistol. Together these layers keep the pistol upright either in the pocket or IWB, for smooth drawing.

It difficult to find a holster that will truly fit a wide variety of gun models. Clinger Holsters’ “Comfort Cling” gun holster is the solution for that. The “Comfort Cling” fits most single stack pistols. Although it does not have the same custom fit of a kydex holster, it is comfortable and versatile.

Their “Comfort Cling” gun holster sells for a modest $19.99 and next day shipping. Clinger Holsters’ website has a list of approximately 45 gun models which fit in their “Comfort Cling” gun holster.

Clinger Holsters Introduces New, Comfortable, Pock Carry Mag Pouch

December 4, 2017

Van Buren, AR—Clinger Holsters has released their newest member to the “Comfort Cling” line—the “Comfort Cling Magazine Holster.” This holster is primarily for pocket carrying a shooter’s magazine; eliminating the damage and malfunctions associated with carrying an extra magazine in the pocket. Clinger Holsters’ “Comfort Cling Magazine Holster” has created a comfortable and concealable option for every carry.

One of the largest issues with carrying an extra magazine on the waistband is that it is difficult to conceal. Shooters who are in a hurry to get their weapon on and leave for the day, typically throw their extra magazine in the pocket. This can create numerous issues for the magazine itself—damaging the feed ramps, bending or denting along the exterior, and shoving lint and other particles into the interior. Clinger’s “Comfort Cling Magazine Holster” is the solution to these problems.

The gel-like cushioned, material provides both comfort and durability as well as keeps the magazine upright in the pocket. The “Comfort Cling Magazine Holster” functions just like Clinger Holsters’ “Comfort Cling Gun Holster” in the pocket: the magazine will draw easily from the holster, leaving the holster in the pocket. This is because of the “Comfort Cling Magazine Holsters” exterior and interior layers working in tandem. The exterior layer, made of coated, non-slip fabric, provides just enough resistance for unholstering from inside the pocket, whereas the interior layer is made of low-friction ballistic nylon.

Clinger Holsters’ “Comfort Cling” magazine holster sells for $19.99 and will be available for purchase either by calling their office, or on their website in the next few weeks. It is a size-fits-most magazine pouch, but it will likely fit yours.
