

Kenetrek Corrie 3.2 Hiker

Our customers asked for a "Serious Light Hiker". Some folks hear the words, "Light Hiker" and they think of something they would slip on to take a short trail walk, and nothing more. They couldn't be more wrong. The Corrie 3.2 is built for the long, arduous haul yet it weighs in at only 3.2 lbs. a pair and feels like a second skin when it comes to agility and control. The word "Corrie" aptly means, "a half-open steep-sided hollow on a mountainside," which is where this boot excels - light and grippy Grapon outsoles, and the added K-Straps tie the base of the heel to the seven inch, double and triple stitched, padded upper, keeping you in complete comfort and control wherever you go. Add in our waterproof breathable Windtex membrane, a 5mm full length nylon midsole, and a reinforced toe and heel atop our Kenetrek Supportive Footbed, and this light hiker becomes serious real fast. Available in Men's Medium and Wide Sizes. Also available in black. Made in Europe.
