

How did FALCO make a Belly Band better, more reliable and safer than ever?

18. November 2021

We all love Belly Band holsters for the comfort they provide and because they can be used with any clothing even without wearing the actual belt. For years, the most discussed disadvantage of any Belly Band holster is that it does not provide enough protection to the trigger guard. With just the rubber covering the trigger you might, under extreme circumstances, experience accidental discharge.

FALCO is a premium European holster producer with in-house manufacture and R&D. Their mission for over 30 years has been to make guns safe, and make high quality holsters easy-to-get worldwide. This year, they came up with a revolutionary product that will change the way you think of belly bands forever. The solution is a simple, yet innovative Belly Band

Platform that is compatible not only with their own Kydex holsters, but also with the majority of Kydex holsters made by U.S. brands.

With FALCO Belly Band Platform you will be able to take any of your favorite Kydex OWB holsters and swap them fast and easy on the platform. The platform comes with no less than 4 extra pouches for your EDC items. You can fit 2 extra magazines in it, together with your phone and a wallet.

The product works as a modular system, so you can add any features you like. You can get just the platform and use it with a holster you already have, or you can get a full package deal including a new holster. There are kydex magazine holsters compatible with the platform as well.

Go ahead and build your own comfortable set-up at www.falcoholsters.com and enjoy its benefits. Their size range covers all women's & men's body shapes, and they can even custom-size the belly band for your specific build. The rubber they use for the platform is breathable, soft, and does not irritate the skin. Great for everyday carry and sports too, isn't it?

Do you still hesitate? Just a reminder, that this product can be custom fitted for more than 1000 pistol models and over 900 revolvers. Also available for firearms with lights and lasers.