Officer Media Group Launches Virtual Academy

An innovative learning platform for the law enforcement community

Nashville, TN — December 9, 2021—The Officer Media Group is proud to announce the launch of the Officer Virtual Academy; an online law enforcement focused learning program that is free to all users. Designed to deliver training appropriate to all levels of law enforcement operations and management, the Officer Virtual Academy tracks each user’s training and provides the ability to download video courses and print a certificate upon successful completion.

“One of the biggest challenges any law enforcement professional faces is self-improvement while working rotating shifts. In answer to this challenge, the Officer Media Group has launched this industry-leading learning portal to learn from our expert instructors through interactive courses,” says Frank Borelli, Editorial Director, Officer Media Group.

The Virtual Officer Academy currently has courses available for training in a variety of law enforcement disciplines to include investigations, defensive tactics, tactical operations and training/career development.

Each course consists of one or more training videos, a downloadable course syllabus and handout and links to additional resources for reference in our user-friendly platform.

The courses are 100% free to take, supported by sponsorships from leading organizations that support the law enforcement industry.

“The Virtual Officer Academy was created with one objective in mind; to train, educate and inspire law enforcement professionals so that they can protect their communities and keep themselves safe,” states Bill MacRae, Vice President and Group Publisher, Officer Media Group. “Future expansion into other disciplines is planned regularly as part of the growth strategy for this cutting-edge platform to serve the continuing educational needs for officers across the globe.”

To register and set up a free learning account, law enforcement professionals can visit www.virtualacademy.officer.com and get started today.
