

Heavy Straps

The Triangle heavy is a sort of addendum to the original for, like the description says, a "Heavy" weapon, in specific, long gunners weapons. The M21, M24, M40, SR25, MK11, MK12 and so on. The problem is of course weight makes the shoulder section of the Triangle rotate to the front under the load. The solution, and adjustable strap from the rear "D" ring to the belt of the pants and another strap from the front "D" ring to the belt. The front strap was added in case of an overturn or upside down situation to ensure the end user is not involved in a choking accident while inverted.

Plate Adapters

The TriangleWRS is designed to be comfortable for long wear and keeps your gun at the ready so the wearer does not miss their shot. Whether it be cutting wood, hunting or riding in all terrain vehicles, this system keeps the wearer prepared. Our designer is an avid outdoorsman and wears the system all day while working his land. Per one of our customers "Every hunter knows that traditional slings can be cumbersome when dragging game from the field, with the Triangle WRS this is not the case."

Triangle Weapon Retention System

Completely
ambidextrous

Cord is made of dyneema, 32 inches in length, breaks at 60 pounds

Rides high for quicker stock to shoulder weld, breaks at 132 pounds, buckle allows for changing the type of weapon attachment you prefer, comes with HK clip

The Triangle WRS was designed by veterans and tested in the field to prove the benefits of its tactical design and use. One of the first benefits the team noticed was its ability to be worn for long periods of time without the discomfort of that most other slings on the market afford the user. Prolonged tactical situations with the "Hurry up and Wait" scenario is much more bearable with the knowledge that your weapon is always ready and at the same time the user has both hand free for prepping other parts of the mission. Comfortable, hands free and always ready seemed to become the mantra of the test team and that was echoed in compound when tested with the plate carrier component of the WRS. Whether on the battle field or the back streets, military and police alike can be afforded a peace of mind with safety and security of their weapon when the Triangle WRS is in use.

The Triangle WRS is Berry Compliant and manufactured in the great state of Kentucky using all American made materials.

The EDDY/Conceal Carry

Executive Detail Detachable Yoke

Any Triangle Weapon Retention System can be converted to The EDDY position. But we offer a change of strap for a more comfortable carry option.

For our men and women in blue, we looked very closely at vehicle born operation with the emphasis on infil. and exfil. of both patrol units and team vehicles. Once again, the mantra of the collection seemed to be "Very comfortable, always at the ready and having both hands available" all the time. The frustration of having to control the weapon with one hand and subduing a perpetrator with the other hand is now a non issue. The same can be said with entering and exiting police vehicles, the weapon stays put and the officer isn't looking for a place to comfortably place the weapon and operate the modern Cruisers, team vans, side by sides, motorcycles, four wheelers, etc. With a click of the retractor lock, the officers weapon is more or less "holstered" but can be accessed once again in an instant with a click of the lock. Executive Security personnel that have daily dress that consists of 2 or 3 piece suites and their weapon consists of smaller SMG's or PDW's have found that they particularly benefit for the Triangle WRS's ability to conceal the tools of their profession.
