XGO® Introduces the Outpost Collection: Fortified Endurance for Extended Cold Operations

Built to hold the edge when exposure runs long.

Southern Pines, NC — January 2026 — XGO®, a leading manufacturer of U.S.-made performance and flame-resistant apparel for the U.S. Military, Law Enforcement, and First Responders, today announced the launch of XGO Outpost, the super midweight grid fleece layer in its newly reimagined, mission-driven layering system.

Outpost replaces what customers have long known as XGO®'s Phase 3 layer, bringing forward the same proven performance under a name rooted in military doctrine. In every campaign, an outpost is positioned forward—exposed, essential, and relied upon to hold ground long enough for the mission to succeed. The XGO® Outpost collection is engineered to fulfill that same role in cold-weather operations.

Built with advanced grid fleece construction, Outpost traps warmth while efficiently shedding excess heat, creating a balance between insulation and breathability. It is designed for stop-and-go movement, extended exposure, and conditions where maintaining thermal equilibrium is critical to endurance.

“Outpost is the layer that holds steady when the mission stretches longer than planned,” said Houston Brady, Director of Marketing/Sales at XGO®. “It bridges the gap between regulation and protection—providing warmth without overheating when conditions are unpredictable.”

The XGO® Outpost collection is proudly Berry Amendment compliant and 100% USA Made, manufactured at XGO's production facility in Candor, North Carolina. While the name has evolved, the materials, construction, and performance trusted by professionals for decades remain unchanged.

Outpost occupies the critical middle ground in XGO®'s mission-based layering structure—engineered to endure forward exposure and keep operators operational as conditions intensify.

When the mission demands endurance at the edge, Outpost stands firm. XGO® Outpost — Hold the edge. Trust the Outpost.
